

Dr. Eleanor Fapohunda
COLLOQUIUM
Presented By School of Arts & Sciences

“Jumping Genes” and Neuronal Decline

Dr. Lisa Prazak-Stockwell
Assistant Professor
Biology

Transposable elements (TEs), which have also been referred to as “jumping genes”, are highly abundant mobile elements that make up a large fraction of the human genome and have the ability to copy and paste themselves throughout the genome with the potential to cause deleterious mutations.

Date: Thursday, November 19, 2015
Time: 3:05 pm
Location: Campus Center Ballroom C

School of Arts & Science

631-420-2467

warrene@farmingdale.edu

farmingdale.edu/arts-sciences

Farmingdale
State College
State University of New York