

Please Save the Date!

Friday October 28, 2016

Farmingdale State College
1:00- 3:30 pm

The Second Annual Native American Symposium: “Constructing Native American History on Long Island and Abroad.”

Presented by
The Social Science Research Institute
Center for Social Justice

With a grant from the SUNY Office of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion
(Exploration in Diversity and Academic Excellence)

This event will include presentations and public dialogue on the politics and challenges of constructing Native American history with interested members of the public, students, and scholars. This year’s program will continue the great discussions between speakers and the general public that were begun at last year’s First Annual Native American Symposium. Our scope will also be broadened to include new, active research under the direction of Farmingdale State College anthropologists, Dr. Allison Manfra McGovern and Dr. Anjana Mebane-Cruz.

For information, please contact
Dr. Anjana Mebane-Cruz, 631.420.2106, email cruza@farmingdale.edu
Dr. Allison McGovern, email mcgovea@farmingdale.edu, or,
Dr. Miriam K. Deitsch, Director of the Social Science Research Institute, 631.420.2751, e-mail miriam.deitsch@farmingdale.edu

Reach Higher.

Farmingdale
State College

State University of New York