

Girl Power in STEM: Be Bold for Change!

for women and girls from 10 to 110

Saturday March 4, 8:15 AM through 5:30 PM

Center for Global Studies and Human Development

Stony Brook University

Hosted by

Brookhaven Women in Science and

Women in Science and Engineering Graduate Women in Science and Engineering

Sponsored by

M&C Venture Group & Stony Brook University

The symposium celebrates women accomplishments in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM). Speakers from academia, government and private sectors will discuss the impact of women in STEM careers.

Keynote Speakers

Pamela Cook - University of Delaware

Susana Martinez-Conde - SUNY Downstate Medical Center

Esther Takeuchi - Stony Brook University,
Brookhaven National Laboratory

David Westerfeld - Stony Brook University

Ursula Zalewski - Career Center, Stony Brook University

Panelists

Heather Berlin, Mary Bishai, Thomas Breeden, Moira Chas, Melanie Chiu, Betsy Dowd, Candice Foley, Miguel Garcia-Diaz, Brittney Herold, Galit Idan, Marajaneh Issapour, Claire Maxey, James Misewich, Kone Moriamu, Osbert Orduna, Rachel Pierre, Evgenyia Rubin, Megan Russ, Robert Russ, Joanne Schwager, Amber Teufel, Guimei Wang

www.STONYBROOK.EDU/BEBOLD