

INCREASE YOUR CREDENTIALS. DECREASE YOUR COST.

YOU'RE INVITED TO BECOME A CERTIFIED GEOTHERMAL INSPECTOR.

GAIN A HOT NEW CERTIFICATION. SAVE A COOL $855!

For the first time ever, PSEG Long Island is partnering with Farmingdale State College and New York Geothermal Energy Organization (NY-GEO) to offer an International Ground Source Heat Pump Association (IGSHPA) Certified Geothermal Inspector workshop. As sponsors, we are able to slash your cost of the certification from $1,250 to just $395.

HARNESS THE FUTURE OF ENERGY.

Ground source heat pumps have been endorsed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as among the most environmentally friendly, energy-efficient systems available. Certified Geothermal Inspector (CGI) accreditation enables you to remain current with this evolving technology, while increasing your competitive edge in the marketplace.

TWO DAYS OF TRAINING.
A WEALTH OF INFORMATION.

The workshop will be held on September 24th and 25th at Farmingdale State College's Renewable Energy and Sustainability Center. It is designed to train contractors, installers, architects and developers — virtually any professional who seeks to learn how to examine and audit these innovative systems. Participants also earn Professional Development Elective (PDE) code credits for Code Enforcement officials.

THE BENEFITS ARE UNLIMITED. BUT ENROLLMENT ISN'T!

Seating is limited for this important and very timely workshop. Register today to reserve your spot and put the energy of the earth to work for you.
