

Centennial Commencement Lecture: Finding the Class of 1919

Librarian, historian, and genealogist, April Lynne Earle, will present her research into the lives of the members of Farmingdale's first graduating class; the Class of 1919. Comprised of a profoundly diverse group of people, including a woman, an immigrant, many first generation Americans, and a disabled student, they studied agriculture right here on your campus. Come see who they were and how she learned about them through historic documents and the College Archives.

Tuesday, April 30, 2019

11:00 – 12:00 p.m.

Business 221

Please RSVP to april.earle@farmingdale.edu

